Public Housing Financing Update

09.10.2005

Hawkins Counsel Rod Solomon has once again contributed his analysis and insight in public housing finance in an article for the Journal Of Housing and Community Development, a publication of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials. Solomon is a veteran administrator with almost 30 years' experience in the public housing and Section 8 voucher programs at the local, state and federal level. Prior to joining the Firm in 2003, Solomon concluded an eight-year tenure with federal office of Housing and Urban Development where he served as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy during a period when the federal government's commitment to its massive public housing stock and Section 8 voucher program underwent a thorough overhaul.
